EPICUREANIST'S HELIX SPINNING WHISKEY GLASS TO LAUNCH ON THE GROMMET
The unique glass spins to aerate whiskey and to start a conversation.

Rancho Dominguez, California (May 17, 2018) – EpicureanistTM, a leading provider of thoughtful, quality wine and libation accessories, today announced its Helix spinning whiskey glass will launch on The Grommet Friday, May 18, 2018. Renowned for discovering independent makers, inventors, and entrepreneurs, The Grommet reviews thousands of products selecting just three percent to launch on its online marketplace. The Helix whiskey glass was selected because it puts a new spin on the traditional whiskey glass – serving as a conversation piece while aerating its contents to enhance flavor.

“At Epicureanist we are dedicated to designing unique products that take the experience of enjoying a libation to the next level,” states India Hynes, Epicureanist's vice president and lead product designer. “Being selected by The Grommet is exciting and affirming because it's a testament to Epicureanist's dedication to functional design and to providing a product that enhances every aspect of enjoying whiskey.”

Featuring a patent pending spin function, the Helix spinning whiskey glass creates an eye-catching illusion as it spins. And, its spin is as enticing as it is deliberate. It helps start conversation all while helping the whiskey aerate – releasing its subtle flavors and aromas that may otherwise go unnoticed.
